

Safety Information Guide for Landlords

It is very important that landlords are aware of their responsibilities for safety, in particular on fire safety. The guide below describes the safety requirements from the Housing (Standards for Rented Houses) Regulations 2017. Landlords must also comply with the Fire Service Acts (1981 and 2003) and should refer to the guidance document 'Guide to Fire Safety in Flats, Bedsitters and Apartments'.

* A multi unit building means a building that contains 2 or more dwellings that share a common access.
